THE TABLET • 27 APRIL 1968

The controversy over priestly celibacy is only a symptom of a more profound problem, involving the “ecclesiastical system”, according to Fr Marc Oraison, the well-known French priest-psychiatrist, writing in Le Monde ... Oraison said ... bishops [must] realise that the concept of the bishop as a great lord, imperial ruler or paterfamilias, is no longer valid. The “vertical” relation of father to children ... must give way to a “horizontal” relation around the bishop who is the servant of all. “Priests in difficulty,” he said, “should be able to speak to the bishop about their problems in the liberty of a dialogue, not as son to father, but as man to man, between people who know each other and who work together to let the world know that it has been saved by Christ.” Fr Oraison concluded: “We must not lose sight of the wood for the trees: it is first of all the system, and not celibacy, that has to be re-thought.”

THE TABLET • 27 APRIL 1918

It is deplorable that ... the question of imposing conscription in Ireland should be aggravated and embittered by attempts to revive the bad old cry of “No Popery”. Though the conscript armies of Catholic Belgium and Catholic France and conscripted Catholics from Canada are fighting in France shoulder to shoulder with Catholic volunteers or conscripts from Great Britain, it is forsooth declared by a correspondent in Wednesday’s Times ... that “it is difficult to be a loyal subject of the King and at the same time a Roman Catholic”, and that ... “Rome is deliberately challenging the British Empire” ... In the next day’s issue, in which an “Old Oratory Boy” and Father Bernard Vaughan pointed to the war records of the Oratory School and of Stonyhurst to show that [their old] boys had no difficulty uniting loyalty to their King and country with fidelity to the Catholic Church.
